PIXABAY license / Stergo / Pixabay MÅ S From QuestionSanswered.net This week I looked at Peak Meetings HD for iPad and so far I like what I see. I mean, meetings, meetings, meetings. There has to be a good way to capture information from the meeting on the iPad, right? Does anywhere you can write your notes, but it would not be great if you could use templates for your meetings? What if they have them in an organized format? When making a meeting, you can choose what kind of meeting it will be. Information? Uptualization? Roles of solve? What Peak Meetings tries to do is help you organize, prioritize and, everything, simplify your meeting notes. Peak Meetings does this by giving you some key sections that are customizable that vary vary About the kind of meeting you have. Let's see a Basic Meeting: Title Objectives Agenda Notes Location Project Attendees The title sections allow you to simply introduce the title of your meeting. You can do it as elegant or as simple as you need. In the following section, goals, I often lack most of the meetings I go. .... The agenda allows you to add bullet point elements, as can be listed in a presentation of Keynote or PowerPoint. Almost all sections of Peak Meetings are divided into smaller groups if you want to take advantage of it. For example. ... With the type of meeting of the program, these bullet points are divided more into four subtopics: Topic- The title of what is going to be discussed TIMING- WHAT THIS TIME should last responsibly. Who is presenting this (is populated in the Attendese sections: more on that later) Details- Specific for this topic to be discussed problems- By what and ideal result options- Pros and LIST OF CONS SOLUTIONS- you need and obstacle actions - Responsible person, date Litime, details after cataloging all the previous information, you can write more details in the notes section. Think if it is a way to summarize your meeting at a high level; The details are accounted for above. Then you can enter location information, such as 4th floor, meeting room B. There is even a specific area to introduce the access code for a conference call. To overcome it, you can enter the attendees for the meeting. Assistants are taken out of their contacts or can be introduced from scratch. Finally, all this information is great but unless you can be linked to a project, it is not worth it. Therefore, you can add multiple projects as necessary for your meeting. Once you have taken all the notes of your meeting you can easily send them. This, my friends is where everything starts Do you remember when you added "attended" contacts to your meeting? Well, now when you send it by email, your assistants show you in the electronic mail window. Very well. El el What you might be thinking is, "Gee, Chad, I have weekly meetings where the agenda, etc., is always the same". Don't worry my friends, they can easily pick a meeting and duplicate it. That sums up Peak Meetings HD for iPad. This application fits very well into my workflow. For example, as many of you know, I love Evernote. Well, I also email a copy of the meeting to Evernote when I'm done with the meeting. Now I have a consistent, well-formatted meeting notes that can be searched instantly. [$9.99 à iTunes Link] Pros A great way to speed up your meetings! Customizable with meeting types Universal application à bonus! Send an email to your meetings from the attendee list Duplicate Common Meetings Cons You can't create your own sections, but it's very flexible to meet most needs No built-in backup or synchronization tool [gallery link="À fileÀ" columns="À 2À"] We can win a commission 3n for purchases using our links.
